Renewtek obtains VERS compliance

Renewtek, an Australian information technology company which specializes in the use of leading edge tools and technologies, announced they have recently obtained Victorian Electronic Records Strategy (VERS) compliance.

VERS is a framework and set of standards, guidelines and implementations for the capture, management and preservation of electronic records. VERS has been accepted by a number of national and international agencies as the standard for long term preservation of electronic records.

Renewtek has developed a VERS compliance add-in for IBM's FileNet P8 Records Manager to support the full VERS specification. The module will integrate seamlessly into FileNet Records Manager and provide transparent encapsulation of documents and records in the VERS format, which leads to providing compliance with the standards and guidelines.

Ms Justine Heazlewood, Director and Keeper of Public Records at the Public Record Office Victoria, said "Renewtek has met all the criteria to become VERS compliant and as a result is now able to work with organisations to assist them with the management of their electronic records."

The Public Record Office Victoria (PROV) VERS Compliance team works with vendors that wish to achieve certification against the VERS Standard. The team also regularly reports on vendor progress towards certification to interested stakeholders in the Victorian Government.

Renewtek's Chairman Mr Neil Perry, said that obtaining this VERS compliance provides national and international agencies with the common standard for long term preservation of electronic records and is part of Renewtek's commitment to partnering with IBM to provide add-ons to the FileNet P8 platform.
